HISTORY

The Jackson Drug story began in 1917 when our great-grandfather, Bruce Porter, spent a college summer working here in Jackson Hole. At the time he was studying to become a pharmacist at Creighton University and after fighting in WW1, he returned to Jackson in 1919.

Shortly thereafter, he purchased the Clubhouse building on the east side of the Town Square, and opened Jackson's first pharmacy and soda fountain, the Jackson Drug. In 1937 he built the stone building on the northwest corner of the square, where the Jackson Drug currently resides. Far from just a pharmacy or soda fountain, it was a general store, meeting place, hangout, and center of community activity.

Drugs weren't Bruce Porter's only interest, however, and in 1928 he founded the Jackson Hole Hereford Ranch. The ranch has also been passed down through the generations and is still a family run business to this day. In fact, the very hamburgers we serve are Jackson Hole born and bred hereford cattle. If you would like to take a quick drive to the south side of town along South Park Loop Rd. you can wave at them!

The Jackson Drug reopened in 2018 after a couple decade hiatus and we couldn't be happier to restore this iconic building to its rightful purpose and place in the community. We truly hope you enjoy your experience at this Wyoming landmark!
